ADIOS TO A FRIEND—

We called them gaily as you closed the door; "Goodnight" you said, and I "Adios, be good." And never guessed that we should have no more of words. But, oh, if I had understood That, leaving me, you'd journey on and on, If I had heard some clearly warning bell Declare that you would greet a radiant dawn, What better way could we have said farewell? "Adios," "Good-night"—a prayer in each one; And friends, like prayer, can pass the deepest bars Of time and space and all that death has done! You tread the morning's blue through singing stars, While I still keep my day's appointed round, I'll let no tears disturb the peace you've found.

—Dorothy Callaway.

SAWFLY MENACE

Extensive sawfly infestation is threatening the wheat crop of Alberta, Saskatchewan and southwestern Manitoba, according to Dr. C. W. Farwell of Lethbridge, assistant entomologist in charge of sawfly investigation for the prairie provinces.

The sawfly lays its eggs inside the grain stem. The larva feeds inside the stem of the wheat from early July until just before the wheat is ready to cut. At that time it gnaws the stem from inside, just above the soil surface. This causes the plant to break off and fall to the ground.

Sawfly infestation has been spreading gradually over the wheat belt during the past fifteen years. Each year there has been a steady increase in damage, but few experts think that conditions would be as bad as indicated by Dr. Farwell. The most effective method of treating sawflies is to seed strips of bromo on headlands and road allowances and across fields. Eggs laid in bromo areas will not hatch out. The planting of oats alongside the wheat field is also effective as the oats, being first up, attract the sawfly. The oats will destroy the larvae.

CANADA'S UKRAINIANS

By HON. R. F. McWILLIAMS

Lieutenant Governor of Manitoba

An address delivered, from Winnipeg, as the introduction to the first broadcast in the "Canadian Air" series of radio programs—sponsored by the Director of Public Information in co-operation with the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

In all the other provinces there are only between 30,000 and 40,000 people of Ukrainian stock, but in the Prairie Provinces they number nearly 250,000, and in Manitoba, constitute over 12 per cent of the population. From among them have come several members of the Legislatures of each of the three provinces and at least one member in the Dominion House. Well, who are these people?

To begin with there are some 60,000 of them in Europe, mostly in south-western Russia, but 4- or 5,000,000 in that part of Poland which has been temporarily taken control of by Russia. They lived in that area for much more than a thousand years. In the time of our Anglo-Saxon forefathers, they built up a great kingdom around the beautiful city of Kiev, the first Slav nation to reach a high standard of civilization. For three centuries this Slav people maintained a rich and flourishing state, deriving its wealth from trade and from the cultivation of the black earth soil which makes it the most fertile part of Eastern Europe. The city of Kiev, built on hills rising 300 feet from the plain, boasted 400 churches and 8 markets.

But these people were unfortunate, politically, in having settled on an open plain without any natural defences against the more warlike people who surrounded them on all sides. In the 13th century their capital was destroyed by the Mongolian Tatars and ever since their land has been the battleground of rival empires. On the east and north were the Tatars, the Great Russians, the Lithuanians and the Poles; on the south the Roman Empire of the East and later the Turks. In fact, the very name of the country—the Ukraine—means the borderland. For seven centuries these people, mostly peasants on the land, have been subject to one conqueror after another and their country has been ravaged time and again by rival armies.

Yet in spite of all, they have maintained their nationality, their speech and their hope that some day they will regain their independence and unity as a nation. People with such powers of endurance and persistence have qualities of character which will add strength and stability to our national structure.

Through all the course of such national troubles the Ukrainians have preserved their love of literature, dancing and especially music. Some of the names familiar to us in the Russian literature are Ukrainian. I understand that the development of the ballet has come largely from them.

NIGHTINGALE

On Friday, June 27th the 20th annual Conference of Women's Institutes, Gleichen Constituency, was held in Nightingale Hall.

The hall was gay with an abundance of flowers and flowering plants, and the decorations were carried out in red, white and blue.

The Conference opened with the singing of O Canada, followed by the Creed. Mrs Duncan Clark of Cluny gave the invocation after which a one minute silence was observed for departed members. Mrs E. M. Stoodley, Constituency Secretary, read the minutes and this was followed by a financial statement for 1940-41. At this time Mrs R. E. Reynolds of Picture Butte, District Director, was introduced.

Mrs Geo. Thurston, Constituency Convenor, also spoke of the necessity of organizing the younger groups. She commented the inclusion of music appreciation in the school curriculum and advocated the emphasizing of beauty in language, line, color and sound, as an important factor in child training.

A report of handicrafts was given by Mrs W. Gray of Strathmore. Nightingale carried out most of the honors. Mrs A. P. Gray and Mrs Hyde of Strathmore acted as judges.

Convenors of Standing Committees for 1941 were appointed. Mrs Soumeville on behalf of the visitors thanked all those who contributed to the success of the Conference. After singing the National Anthem the visitors enjoyed a refreshing cup of tea before leaving.

Mrs Walter Mercer, Myrtle Stoodley of Lolo and Mary Kinney gave musical selections during the day and drew greatly to the enjoyment of the occasion.

ALBERTA'S CANCER CLINIC

Due to misinterpretation of an announcement regarding the Provincial Cancer Diagnostic Clinic, the Department of Health is asking that publicity be given to the following points, so that much unnecessary travel might be saved country patients.

1.—Under the Alberta Cancer Treatment and Prevention Act, two clinics have been established. These are (A) at Calgary, Holy Cross Hospital, every Friday afternoon from 2 to 5 p.m. except legal holidays; and (B) at Edmonton in the Provincial Building, 101 A Avenue, every Tuesday morning from 9 until 1 p.m.

2.—As TIME is the essence of successful cancer treatment, the primary purpose of the clinics is to make early diagnosis of cancer.

3.—Patients must in every case be referred by their own doctor, and must bring a report and all records of consultation.

4.—All laboratory, X-ray or other diagnostic examinations are free.

5.—If diagnosis reveals cancer which, in the opinion of the clinic will respond to radium or X-ray treatment will be given free.

6.—Radium and X-ray are not provided as a palliative, since many drugs serve this purpose.

7.—The clinics are NOT authorized to treat cancer by surgery.

8.—Patients must provide their own transportation.

9.—Clinics cannot pay for hospitalization.

10.—The patient's doctor is expected to retain the patient. He is notified of findings, and is asked to keep the clinic informed as to the progress of his patient.

Alberta's cancer clinics are the first step in a five-year plan which has as its aim the diagnosis of cancer, diagnosis and treatment on a State Medicine basis. Progress along these lines is determined by the amount of money available to carry on the work. The time is—Calgary, every Friday from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Holy Cross Hospital. Every patient MUST be referred by his own doctor.

PLANNED ECONOMY

This war is going to bring about far reaching changes. It seems to be quite definite that planning will be part of national life in post war years. The casual happy-go-lucky system of economies in which individuals are allowed to do pretty much as they please will disappear. The nineteenth century idea of laissez faire, with vague goals shared by the uncoordinated actions of myriads of individual entrepreneurs, is probably done for. Democratic governments will have to learn planning and coordination if direly disastrous years are to be avoided.

There is nothing undemocratic in planning. It has only been the greed of capitalism and the lethargy and inaction of democratic governments that have enabled the laissez faire system to continue.

DAYLIGHT SAVING

FROM the farmer's standpoint "daylight-saving" time so-called is day-light-waiting time. Pushing on the hands of the clock does not hasten the drying of dew or the melting of a morning crust of frost. If city people want to rise earlier why not let them change their alarms instead of interfering with the confusion, fuss and bother of resetting all our time pieces by law?

We agree. If a few industries wish to start at 5 instead of 6 o'clock, in order to have one more hour of daylight at the sunset end, by all means let them govern their own business and act accordingly.

For ourselves and a large number of others, who ought to start the day at 6, when the sun still registers 5 a.m. With the sun and the railways clinging to Standard Time, the change makes confusion worse confounded.

A THOUGHT FOR DOMINION DAY LARD TWEEDSMUIR

The following extract is from a radio talk given on July 1st, by the late Lord Tweedsmuir, former governor general of Canada. It is offered as a suitable contribution on the occasion of the approach of Dominion Day, 1941.

"I should like to offer to the people of Canada one reflection, which I think is appropriate to this day of national remembrance.

Seventy years ago the Fathers of Confederation accomplished a great work.

"They gave Canada union.

"They could not give her unity.

"Unity comes only by the process of time, by the slow assimilation of different points of view and different traditions.

"Canada must have not merely a formal confederation but a sincere identity of spirit.

"Let us remember today that her destiny is not to be a mere territorial expression and not to be merely nine provinces but to be a single indivisible nation."

SATURDAY EVENING POST CHANGES ATTITUDE

Some months ago an insistent cry was heard across the country calling for the banning of the Saturday Evening Post. The ban won't be necessary now. The Post's publishers apparently have undergone a change of heart and mind. They had been strongly isolationist; now believing the United States to be practically in the war they see no greater peril in the country going forward to crush Hitler than in drawing back.

The widespread circulation and influence of the Saturday Evening Post in the United States is a force to be reckoned with when dealing with great public issues. Its change of attitude is significant.

NO BREAD SHORTAGE

Cereals—No shortage of bread. Campaign, earlier in war, to get people to eat oats and barley. Oats supply depleted, and oats urgently needed for milling consumption and for feeding horses. Pamphlets now calling on farmers to produce more of more essential foods—especially wheat, potatoes and sugar beets for household use; and barley to meet beer requirements. Farmers producing on own land more food for their livestock, especially for cows.

Vegetables—Potatoes plentiful, but ministry campaigning for more variety vegetable diet to bolster morale.

"Dig for victory" drive has resulted in innumerable small gardens. Fruit, sugar—Baking on large quantities of dried fruits with other non-perishable produce from abroad. Proposed ban on serving sugar for sweetening, but drink in restaurants postponed. Sugar needed for sweets, particularly for the young.

Plenty of Onions

"One thing is sure," Lord Woolton told me, "there'll be no shortage of onions. We'll have a more than usual Americans won't be able to stand it in Britain."

Despite a cold, late spring's delay of the growing season, and the impact of shipping losses on the food supply, the ministries of food and agriculture reported Britain is not condition, if wholehearted, may be regarded as an important victory for the Roosevelt administration of which the Post has been a redoubtable critic. It probably will continue to criticize but it will not, we in Canada still, continue to knock the British war effort.

Certainly, for the past year or more, The Post had done the British war effort no good, if it was not actually doing it harm. Since so many subversive foreign publications were being banned, why not The Post, too?

We've questioned the editor, the past year on the street, in Parliament and in the Senate. Though not publicly proclaimed, the censors at Ottawa had a Government policy to pursue. To have a publication of The Post's standing (in the U. S.) would do Canada and Britain more harm than good.

We've predicted, in columns months ago that the turn of events in the United States would in due course cause The Post to change its attitude, a change inevitable. The handwriting took so long to see the handwriting on the wall, and why they adopted an isolationist policy involving stories and articles detrimental to British interests is still a mystery, not only to Canadians but also many Americans.

No Food Shortage in Britain But Diet Lacks Kick

By Russell Landstrom

London—Britain's diet still is nourishing enough, but it lacks the thrills that "give a kick to life."

That's the latest report from Britain's ministry of food.

"We have enough meat to keep up our health though not enough for happiness," explained Lord Woolton, the food administrator. "The shortage of meat is affecting us more than anything else, because the English meal is built around meat. It's hard to get any real substitute.

Wants Canned Meats—

"And our diet today is dull, a matter of real concern. It's not enough to have foods high in nutritional value. We must have tasty foods served as attractively as possible. We must have that to keep up morale."

Lord Woolton is hoping for quantities of canned meats and fish from the United States to put the "kick" back in British eating.

The government has found that, as people eat less meat, they also eat fewer vegetables. A campaign has been launched to increase consumption of vegetables other than potatoes, as a means of giving variety to a diet which permits only four shillings (about 30 cents) worth of meat a week for a family of four.

Milk—Anxiety over possible shortage next winter. Lord Woolton has appealed to United States for ever-increasing supplies of milk products, especially milk in powdered form.

Bird products—Cherries have become rare. No longer sold in pubs, and most dining places either haven't got cheese or guard supply carefully. Britain hardly enough for more variety for cheese.

Where The Profits Go

Further evidence that fortunes are not being made in Canada out of the war is seen in the financial statement of the Dominion Textile Company for the year ending March 31. This company has been tremendously busy with war contracts. Its total net income was $2,358,593, of which $1,112,145 was paid in income and excess profits taxes, and $2,034,145 was left as the net profit.

That is to say, the division was two to one in favor of the government. As a matter of fact, there were other charges to be met out of net profits, and the amount paid to shareholders was $1,485,842.

This company makes, not only material for military clothing, but numerous war supplies as well, including tire fabrics for mechanized equipment, and materials for tents, tarpaulins, gun-covers, kit bags, canvas outfitting and other equipment.

Searle Precipitation REPORT

Very little change has occurred during the past week in the moisture condition of the three Prairie Provinces. Adding together the precipitation which occurred last 3rd during the months of August, September and October, and the rains which have fallen from April 1st to June 30th (including the 3rd), the total precipitation gives a moisture condition for the three Prairie Provinces, as a unit, on stubble land that was seeded to wheat, of 85 per cent of normal, and on land that was summerfallowed and seeded to wheat of 90 per cent of normal, giving a round figure for the whole seeded acreage of 86 per cent as compared with 90 per cent last week, and 77 per cent at this time a year ago.

For Alberta the moisture condition is now 80 per cent of normal as compared with the same figure 80 last week, and 48 per cent a year ago. For Saskatchewan it is now 86 per cent of normal, as compared with 87 per cent last week and 68 per cent a year ago.

For Manitoba the similar moisture condition is now 128 per cent as compared with 131 per cent last week, and 69 per cent at this time a year ago.

Manitoba has an exceptionally good reserve of moisture and so have many areas in eastern Saskatchewan and one or two districts in southern Alberta. Central and northern Alberta, however, together with a number of points in western Saskatchewan are still short of normal moisture reserve.
